

Mobile Storytelling

Capturing the evidence of learning in a digital and audio format

Elective Workshops for teachers of Junior Cycle

This elective workshop will provide teachers of all subjects with an opportunity to explore the art and process of storytelling using digital technologies.

Open to all Junior Cycle teachers, this workshop provides hands-on experience in using free audio and videography applications to create and edit multimedia content on any mobile device.

You will develop confidence in your creativity of mobile storytelling, with a focus on photography, audio and videography. The skills developed will be transferable to a broader range of contexts and applications in a school setting.

Please note the following:

- Teachers are required to bring a mobile device, earphones and charger.
- It is recommended to have the following applications downloaded prior to the day: Kinemaster and Anchor on your mobile device.

Glen Mulcahy, former head of Innovation with RTÉ, Ireland's national public broadcaster, has inspired and driven the growth of mobile journalism within RTÉ's newsroom and across other European broadcasters. Glen was the founder and event manager of RTÉ Mojocon and he was the lead on RTÉ's mobile journalism project ("mojo").

Glen is at the forefront of engaging with new technologies and working on solutions for how such technologies can transform the way traditional media organisations work. Glen is currently working on 360°/VR and immersive storytelling.

A former broadcast engineer, Glen has worked in the broadcast industry for over 19 years - but says the current disruptive trends in technology are some of the most exciting and challenging he has seen over his career to date.

Spaces are limited. Booking is through the relevant Education Centre (See above).
